

Frontiers in Digestive Research and Practice

Name	Eunsun Noh, PhD
Affiliation	The Korea Institute of Drug Safety and Risk Management
Country	Republic of Korea
Major Field	Pharmacy, Pharmacoepidemiology, Pharmacovigilance

Educational Background

1998-2002	Bachelor of Pharmacy, College of Pharmacy, Dongduk Women's University
2002-2004	Master of Science, Pharmaceutical Science, College of Pharmacy, Dongduk Women's University
2009-2013	Doctor of Philosophy, Pharmaceutical Science, Pharmacoepidemiology and Pharmacoeconomics, University of Rhode Island

Professional Experience

2016-Present	Korea Institute of Drug Safety and Risk management
2013-2015	Post-Doctoral Fellowship, Pharmacoepidemiology Infectious Disease Outcomes Research Program, Providence Veterans Affairs Medical Center
2013-2015	Adjunct Assistant Professor, Pharmacoepidemiology Department of Pharmacy Practice, College of Pharmacy

Main Scientific Publications

1. Yeon B, Suh AY, Choi E, Kim B, Noh E, Chung SY, Han SY. Depression risk associated with the use of 5 α -reductase inhibitors versus α -blockers: A retrospective cohort study in South Korea. PLoS One. 2022 Mar;17(3).
2. Caffrey AR, Timbrook TT, Noh E, Sakoulas G, Opal SM, Nizet V, LaPlante KL. Evidence to support continuation of statin therapy in patients with staphylococcus aureus bacteremia. Antimicrob Agents Chemother. 2017;61(3).
3. Morrill HJ, Caffrey AR, Noh E, LaPlante KL. Vancomycin dosing considerations in a real-world cohort of obese and extremely obese patients. Pharmacotherapy. 2015;35(9):869-75.
4. Caffrey AR, Noh E, Morrill HJ, LaPlante KL. The effects of obesity on the comparative effectiveness of linezolid and vancomycin in methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus pneumonia. Adv Pharmacoepidemio Drug Saf. 2015;4(1): 176.
5. Morrill HJ, Caffrey AR, Noh E, LaPlante KL. Epidemiology of pneumococcal disease in a national cohort of older adults. Infect Dis Ther. 2014;3(1):19-33.